

Membership Form 2019

CloughJordan Community Farm is a CSA member-owned farm. CSA (Community-Supported Agriculture) is an alternative, local and solidarity based economic model of agriculture and food distribution. It means a share in the harvest for everyone who participates.

The member's fee is used to pay the farmer's salary, to purchase seeds, equipment and to lease the land. Being a part of CloughJordan Community Farm is a unique experience. Members are directly connected to the source of their food, they can participate in the annual production plan deciding what we will grow, take part in organising events and farm work days etc. It is a community where we can all learn together, eating seasonally and sharing recipes.

It is essential that members understand what is meant by "sharing the rewards and the risks". The seasons and weather affect the vegetables which reflects in weekly harvest. If it is a good season members can enjoy a bumper harvest. If, however, it is not so good, members must also accept the possibility of less variety and amounts.
